How do the wireless devices form a network?

You place the wireless device near a front window of your home, and plug it into a regular electrical outlet. If your neighbors also have them in their homes, the devices can form a digital block club, and allow you to communicate beyond the neighborhood. How you use the network will be collaboratively determined by you and other neighbor-links.

A basic device costs $45, with higher quality devices (For outdoor installation) costs around $80.
